

DESIGN THINKING

Muskan Gupta

PROBLEM STATEMENT

We want to help Lux understand why Gen Z consumers notice its products but neither like nor purchase them.

What Gen Z Thinks About Lux

Looks too girly.

Smells nice but drying.

Male, 21

"I never buy Lux. The packaging looks feminine. If it was more neutral and fresh, I'd try it."

Female, 20

"Lux smells good but feels more like something my mom uses. I want something more aesthetic and hydrating."

I want hydration.

Make it aesthetic.

OBSERVATIONS

- Feminine image limits relevance
- Fragrance fades too quickly
- Seen as older-generation brand
- Skin benefits & aesthetics expected
- Openness to try if repositioned

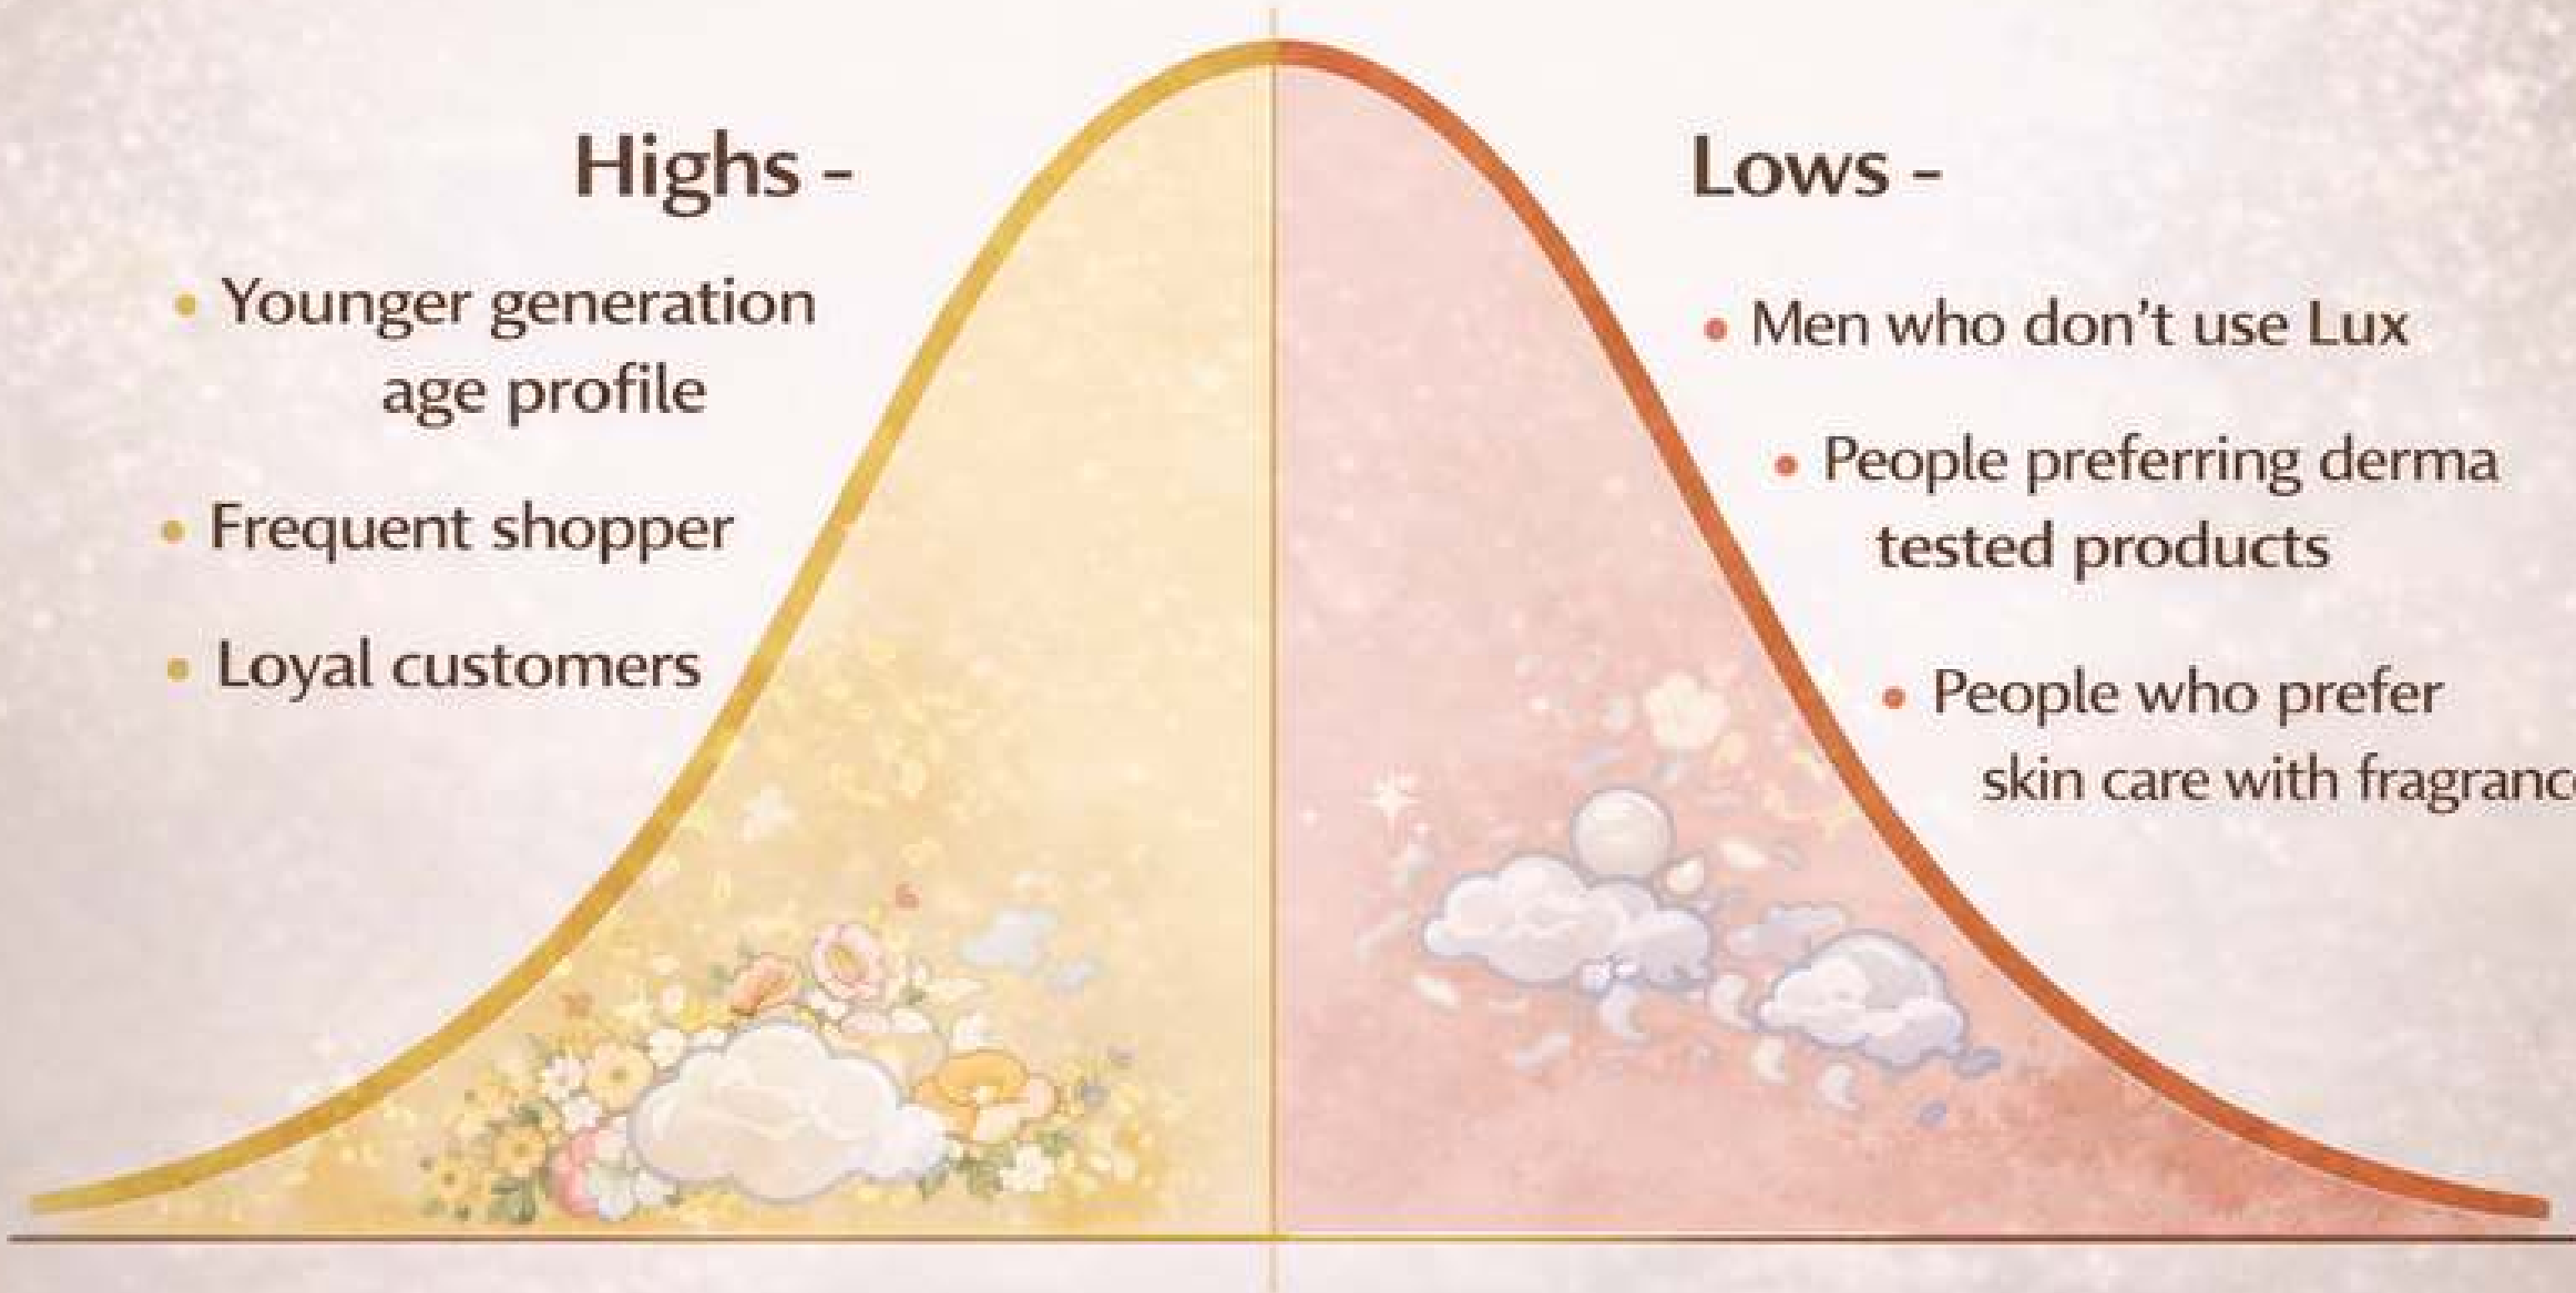

Highs and Lows in Gen Z's Lux Market Appeal

Highs -

- Younger generation age profile
- Frequent shopper
- Loyal customers

Lows -

- Men who don't use Lux
- People preferring derma tested products
- People who prefer skin care with fragrance

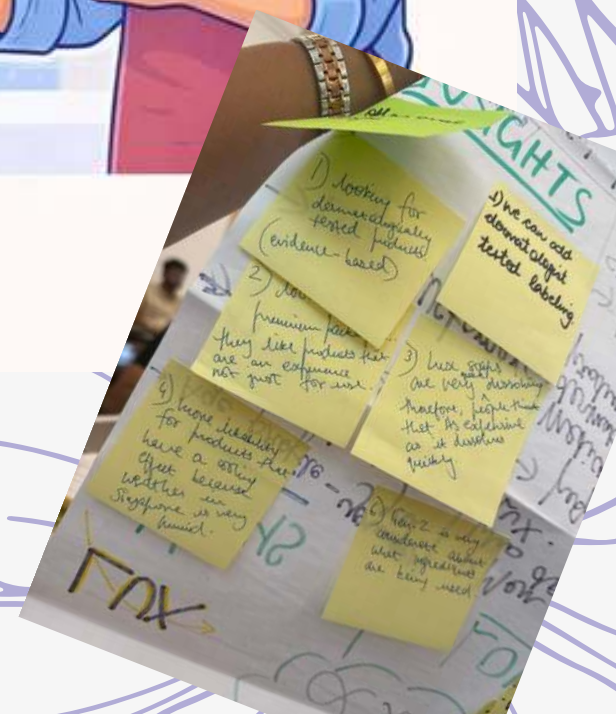

WHAT DO WE UNDERSTAND FROM THESE OBSERVATIONS?

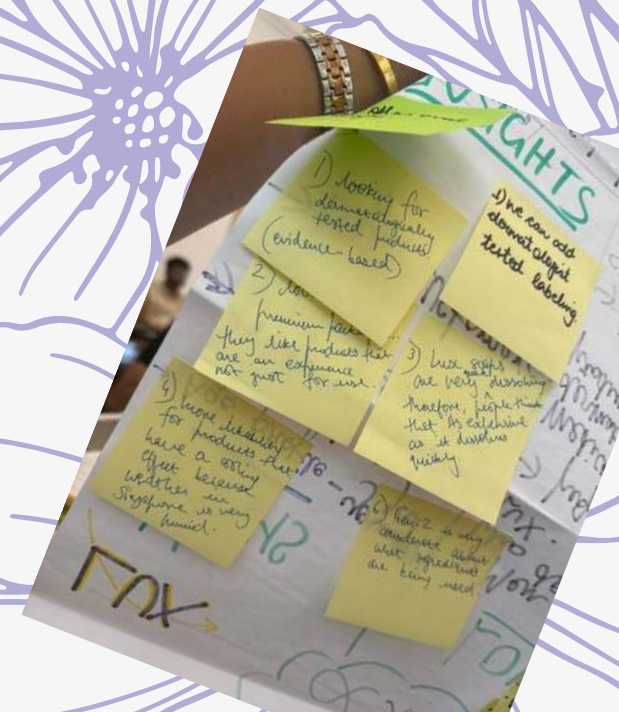

- Luxury = lasting fragrance + skin benefits
- Aesthetics drive trial and social validation
- Gen Z adopts brands based on relevance, not legacy.

INSIGHTS

INSIGHTS

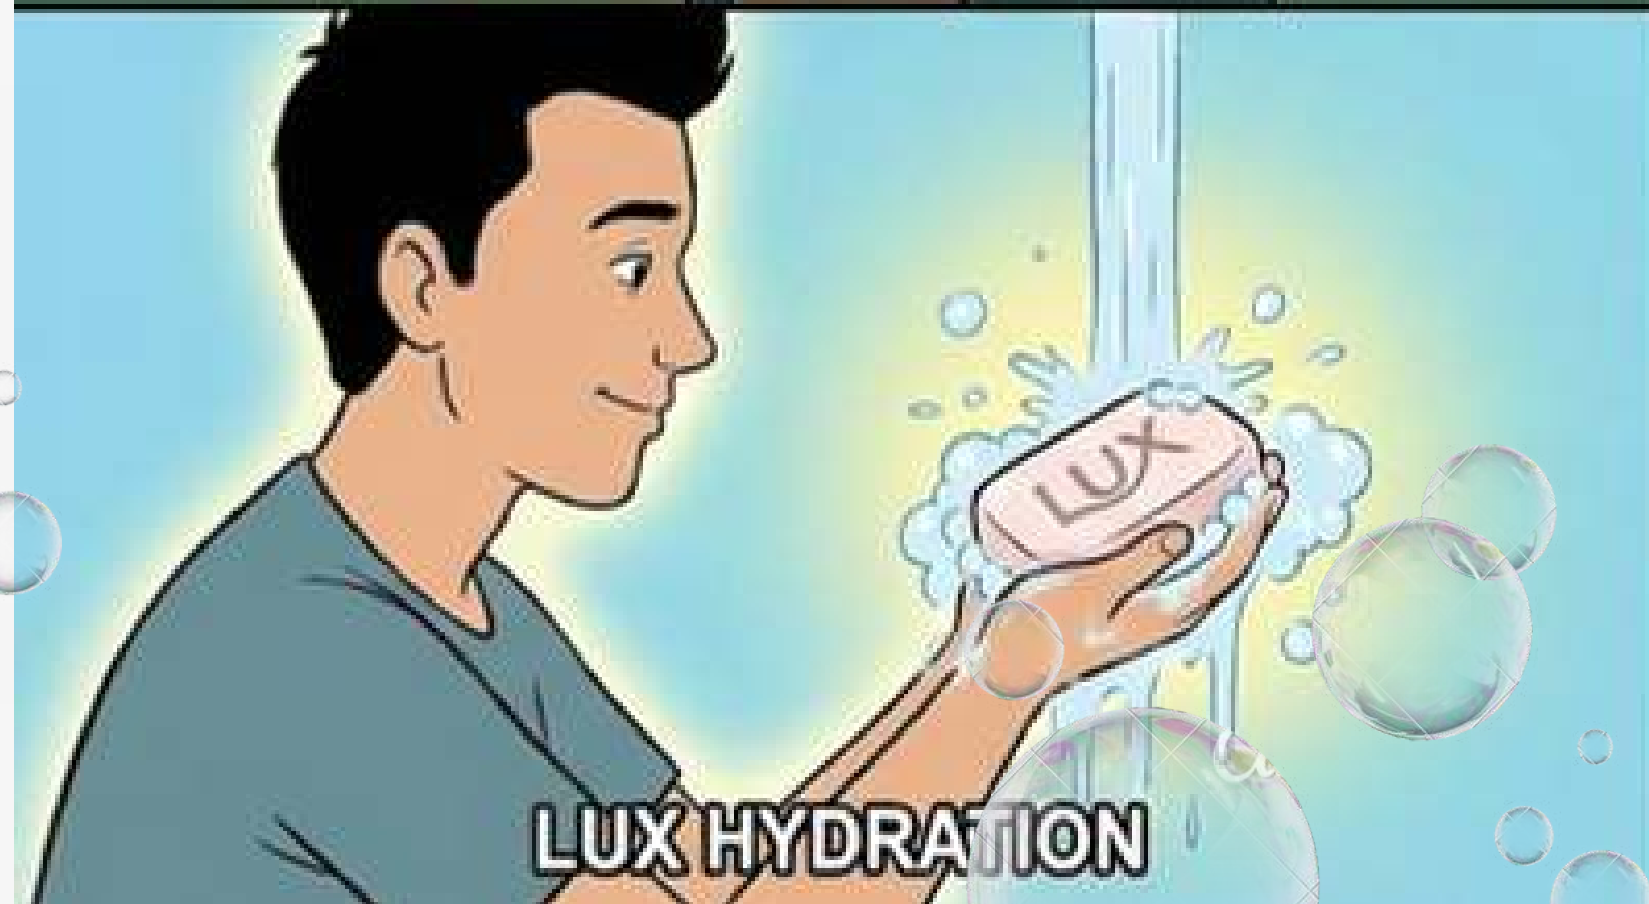

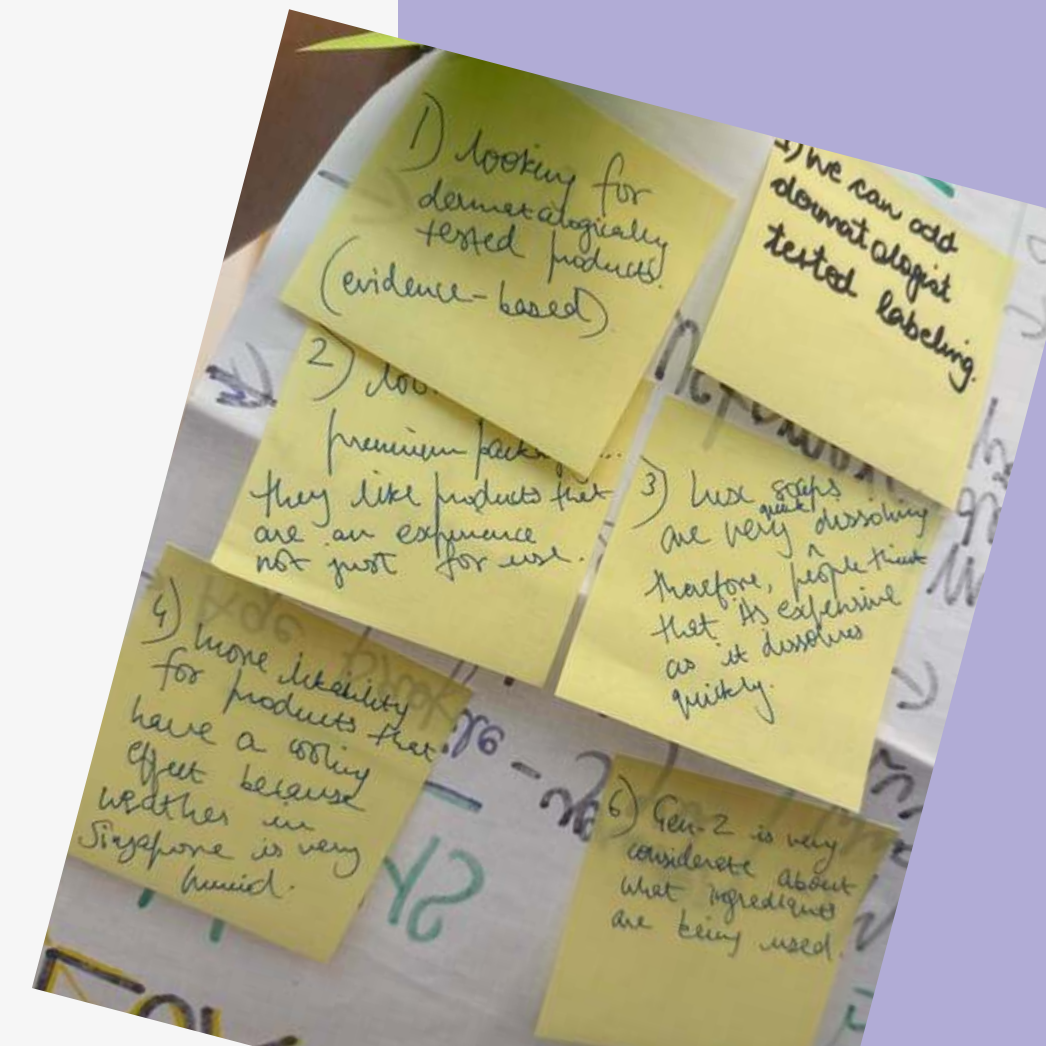

HOW MIGHT WE HELP

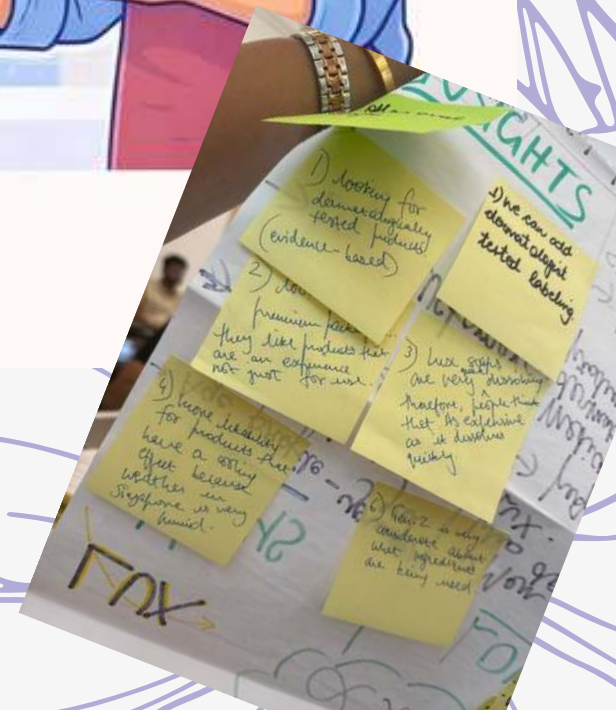

How might we help Lux transform Gen Z's awareness into actual purchase decisions in the Singapore market?

SOLUTIONS

SOLUTIONS

SOLUTIONS

The Great Lux 'Glow-Up' Mission: SG Edition!

BEFORE (Ah Ma's Era)

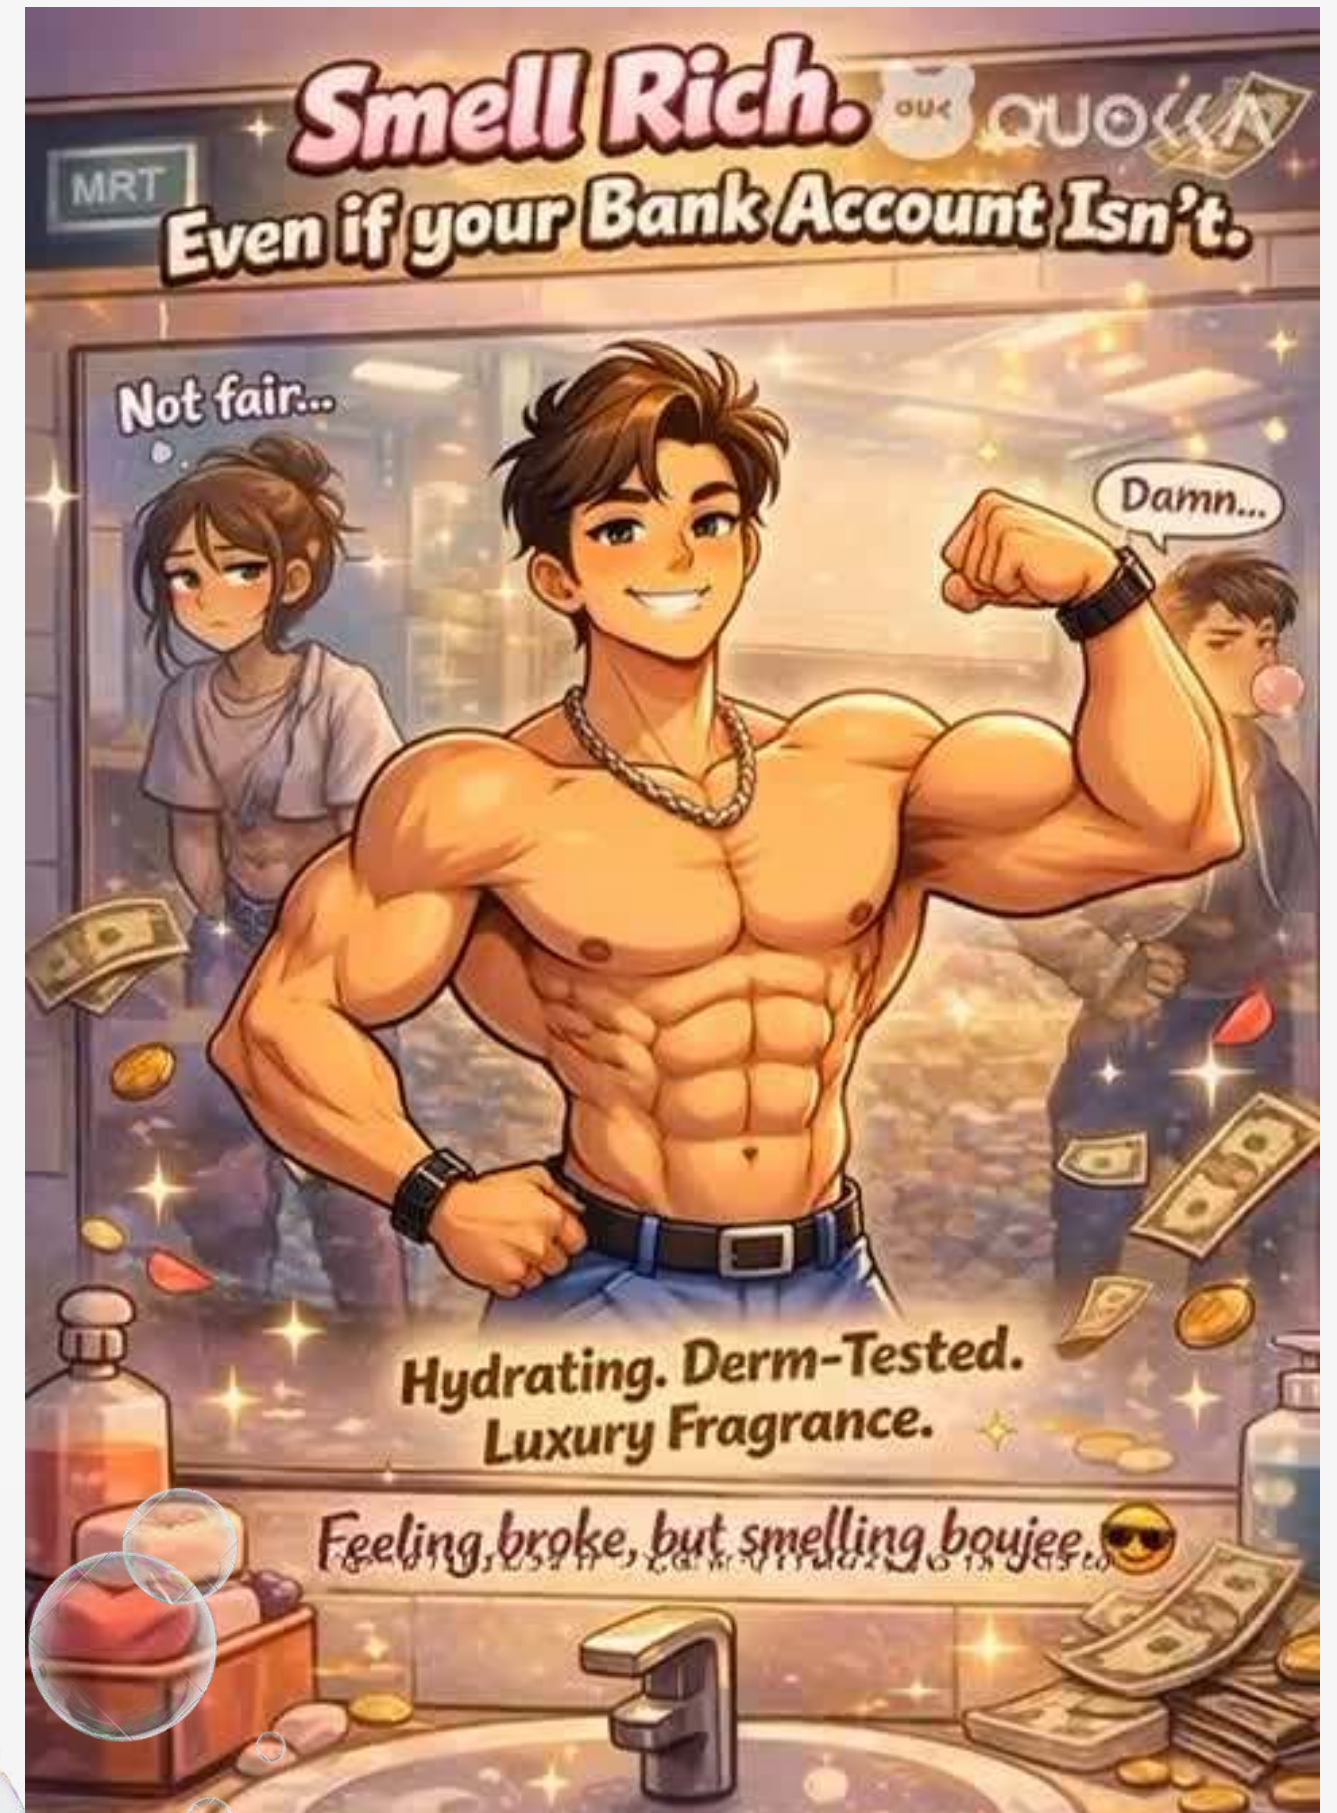

Ah Ma's 'go-to' since 1965.
Smells like medicated oil & discipline.

AFTER (Gen Z 'Glow-Up')

For your 'Main Character' energy. ✨
So atas, even your boyfriend will steal it.

PROTOTYPE

LIFE-SIZE TEMPLATE ON A4 PAPER - DO NOT SCALE

PROCESS

